ROME, Dec. 23 — (INS) — Threats of a general European war were renewed in the Italian press today as the appointment of Capt. Anthony Eden as British foreign minister, while not directly commented upon, was a significant outburst against the League of Nations.

"In the name of peace, the sanctionist nations are galloping towards transgression and a new European conflagration," said Piccolo, a newspaper which often expresses official views.

"Everybody can imagine what the white race and justice and civilization can gain thereby."

Sound "Death Knell"

Unofficially, it was the General Italian belief that the appointment of Eden sounds the death knell to further attempts to a peaceful solution in Ethiopia, and Italy must now press with full vigor her military campaign there.

The foreign office would not comment, and all spokesmen were warned to "wait and see what Eden does in office."

ITALY REPORTS FIERCE BATTLE

Ethiopians Routed After
Hand-to-Hand Fight

ROME, Dec. 23 — (INS) — A fierce battle which followed an Ethiopian northward drive to within a few miles of the British border was reported officially by the Italian government today with the claim the Ethiopians had been routed after bitter hand-to-hand fighting.

Five thousands Ethiopians took part in the battle, indicating it may have been the greatest pitched encounter of the war. They attacked the Italian lines in the Adi Abo sector, west of their "holy city" of Aksum, north of the Takkeze river, and less than 20 miles from the British frontier.

Italian artillery and air forces helped rout the Ethiopians, an official communique announced. It was indicated losses on both sides were heavy, although not yet ascertained definitely.

AUTO CRASHES AGAINST POLE; THREE UNINJURED

Three Zanesville residents received a severe shaking but escaped serious injury Saturday night when their car crashed into a telephone pole on Route 22, just west of the Marion Greenhouses.

Eugene Carter, of S. Sixth-st., Zanesville, driver, reported he lost control of the car when he opened a door to brush some ashes from his clothes. The door opened so swiftly he was almost thrown from the car.

Telephone employees were called to replace the wires and the car was taken to the Richards garage, nearby, for repairs. It was badly damaged.

Sen. Schall Dies

OLSON TO NAME NEW U. S. SOLON

Governor, to Be Candidate for Full Term, Not to Resign
Present Job

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 23 — (INS) — While plans were being completed for the funeral services for United States Senator Thomas D. Schall, to be held here tomorrow, speculation was already rife as to who his successor in the senate would be.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson, head of the state's Farm-Labor party and friend of the Roosevelt administration, bitterly fought and criticized by Schall, announced he would not resign the governorship to fill out the unexpired term. He had previously announced he would oppose Schall in the senatorial election in 1936.

Gov. Olson revealed he would appoint a successor to Schall in the immediate future, probably before congress reconvenes. Likely appointees are said to be Frank W. Murphy of Wheaton, and Chief Justice John P. DeVaney of the state supreme court.

Meanwhile, Republican leaders suggested that the blind senator's widow be a candidate in the June primaries for the seat held for two terms by her husband.

Sen. Schall died in Washington yesterday, of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile last Thursday. He was 58.

FLAMES DAMAGE VILLAGE CHURCH, HALT YULE RITES

Fire in the Atlanta, Perry-twp., Methodist Episcopal church Sunday forced postponement of a Christmas Sunday school program until tonight and transferred the scene to the township school.

The flames were discovered in the church room by Miss Louise Skinner during the afternoon Sunday school session. The fire was believed caused by an overheated coal stove.

Damage was estimated more than $100 with volunteer firefighters forced to rip out part of the wall to get to the flames. Fire extinguishers from the school and a bucket brigade prevented greater damage.

WEATHER HITS PROJECTS

All WPA projects except two, the ladies sewing program and the improvement of Thompson road, were closed today because of bad weather, officials reported.

Official notice was received at the local office Monday morning that workers would receive one and a half days off, with pay, for Christmas and New Year's. All workers must report on the preceeding Tuesday morning to receive credit for the holidays.

G. W. MORRISON, WIDELY KNOWN ATTORNEY, DEAD

Ruptured Coronary Artery

Cause of Sudden Death

FUNERAL TUESDAY AT 2

Stricken While in Columbus on Legal Business; Survived
By Widow

George W. Morrison, 66, known to hundreds of Pickaway-co residents as "Billy," died in White Cross hospital, Columbus, Saturday at 7:50 p. m. of a ruptured blood vessel above his heart.

Mr. Morrison, an Ashville attorney for 42 years, went to Columbus Saturday morning in company with Frank Hudson to transact some legal business in the Franklin-co courthouse. As he left his car he suffered a chest pain. Believing that he might feel better after he reached the courthouse and sat down to rest, he managed, with Mr. Hudson's aid, to reach the corridor. The pain continued and a physician was called. He advised Mr. Morrison be taken to a hospital.

His death shocked the Ashville community where he was probably the foremost citizen. For many years residents of the village and its community had looked up to Mr. Morrison as a leader in its civic affairs.

A post mortem was conducted by Dr. Carl Hoy Sunday to determine the cause of Mr. Morrison's sudden death. It was learned a coronary artery was ruptured. Dr. Hoy pronounced the cause unusual.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Ashville Methodist Episcopal church with the Rev. J. O. Kilmer and W. Newton Mantle officiating. Burial will be in Reber Hill cemetery in charge of E. F. Schlegel.

Pall bearers will include Tom Accord, George Peters, G. C. Cline, S. C. Allison, H. D. Rhodes, and E. W. Seeds, all bosom friends and business associates.

Mr. Morrison's life was an active one. He was a splendid lawyer, a member of the Pickaway-co Bar association, a member of the Knights of Pythias, and of the Masonic orders, and of the Methodist Episcopal church. Mr. Morrison was a Republican and for a while was a law partner of C. C. Chappellier. He obtained his legal education studying with the late Judge Festus Walters, and at the Ohio Normal university at Ada, now Ohio Northern university.

Never in Politics

Mr. Morrison never sought an elective office although his friends prevailed on him a number of times to seek the probate judgeship.

He was admitted to the bar in 1891.

George William Morrison was born in Iowa April 18, 1869 a son of James and Miranda Dresbach Morrison. His parents had been residents of the Scioto valley but removed to Iowa. They later returned to this state.

He is survived by his wife, Blanche. A son, Charles, died while attending Ohio State university.

The Pickaway-co Bar association met this afternoon and decided to attend the funeral in a body.

CUFF LINKS OF FIRST GOVERNOR ARE DAVEY'S

COLUMBUS, Dec. 23 — (INS) — Gov. Martin L. Davey today displayed a rare Christmas present, a pair of gold cuff links once worn by Ohio's first governor, Richard Tiffin, Chillicothe, the governor from 1803 to 1807.

The links were presented to Davey by R. W. Presnell, Columbus, a grand nephew of Tiffin.

They are about the size of a quarter and are centered with tiny pearls. Tiffin, a Democratic governor, prized them highly. Presnell informed the present governor.

BRUNO'S APPEAL IS READY TODAY

Attorneys to Claim New Evidence is Discovered

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 23 — (INS) — Bruno Richard Hauptmann's appeal to the New Jersey Court of Pardons to escape death in the electric chair the week of January 13 was to be made today.

Hauptmann, stoical as ever, worked out the last of his answers to questions in the appeal in a conference with his attorney, C. Lloyd Fisher, this morning.

Before his application can be acted upon one way or the other, the Bronx carpenter will witness the sixth procession of doom since he entered the death house of the New Jersey state prison.

Some time before New Year's day, Romaine Johnson, negro killer, will walk the grim "last mile" to the chair.

Hauptmann's argument before the court of pardons, it is understood, will be chiefly that evidence was suppressed by the state at the trial in Flemington and that "new evidence" has been discovered since then.

He will further contend that "mob spirit" at Flemington kept the jury from reaching a "fair" verdict and that the jurors were coerced.

COUNTY DADS TO DECIDE ON NEEDED RELIEF POST

Further plans for the establishment of a centralized relief agency for the distribution of commodity supplies and case investigation, were to be discussed by the county commissioner late Monday.

The commissioners have agreed to set up the agency but are not definitely sure who will be in charge. Under a recent state ruling no counties are to receive supplies unless they have the agency. The board is also to furnish a warehouse and truck for the distribution work.

AGED COUNTY RESIDENT, ILL TWO WEEKS, IS DEAD

Illness of two weeks caused death at 8:30 p. m. Sunday at her home in Pickaway-twp. of Mrs. Arthelia Groves, 86, widow of William H. Groves. Her husband died 22 years ago.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the chapel of Hiltner, Ludwig cemetery with Rev. Spurgeon Metzler officiating. Burial will be in the adjoining cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

Mrs. Groves was born in Hocking-co June 3, 1849, a daughter of Richard and Elizabeth Jenkins Miller.

Surviving are four children, Mrs. Ed Dumm, Pickaway-twp.; George, Ashville; Mrs. Nellie Wright, Kingston; and Mrs. Laura Hanley, Washington-twp. There are 2 grandchildren and 24 great grandchildren.

Reform Mayor of Cleveland Chooses 32-Year-Old Nemesis of Al Capone as Safety Director

CLEVELAND, Dec. 23 — From college student to safety director of a city of more than a million population in 10 years—

That's Eliot Ness, G-man and Al Capone nemesis, drafted by Cleveland reform mayor, Harold H. Burton. Ness is the youngest man ever to direct the police and fire departments in Cleveland's history. For that matter, he's one of the youngest men in the country to hold a municipal office of that importance in any city of Cleveland's size.

Only 32, soft-spoken and mild-mannered, Ness hardly looks the part. But his record speaks for him, since he, himself, is reluctant to discuss it. He has packed the 10 years since he graduated from University of Chicago with excitement and achievement.

Didn't Study to Be G-Man

Although he "majored" in commerce, Ness turned immediately after he left college to investigation work. He served for a year as private agent for an insurance company. Then, before he was 24 years old, he became a U. S. prohibition agent.

Next followed several years as an agent under the department of justice—a "G-man." It was in that period that he won his enviable reputation as an officer of the law.

Internal revenue agents were already at work developing their

CHIMES TO OPEN HOLIDAY PARTY OF LEGION POST

All details had been arranged today for the Christmas eve party of Howard Hall post American Legion for the city's children. The party will, as usual, take place at the courthouse with a Santa Claus and everything.

It will start at 7:30 p. m. with chimes to be played in the courthouse. The divine blessing will be offered by the Rev. Herman A. Sayre after which bearded Saint Nicholas will put in his appearance.

Santa will distribute 1,000 bags of candy and fruit prepared by the Legion and financed through popular subscription.

In case of bad weather the celebration will be held in Memorial hall.

Hearing Before Warren-co Barrister Ends in Less Than Two Hours After Its Start;
Decision is Cheered by Witnesses

Incumbent, Declares He is Through Successful Candidate to Appoint His Aides Soon

William J. Graham, E. Mound-st., will become mayor of Circleville on January 1.

In a hearing lasting less than two hours, Judge Charles B. Dechant of Lebanon, determined that fast Monday morning when he dismissed Mayor W. B. Cady's petition charging election irregularities on the ground that the petition when filed was not accompanied by the proper bond.

"I'm Through"—Cady

Mr. Cady said he would not appeal the court's decision, adding: "I'm through with it. I've spent all the money I intend to spend."

A crowded court room, which included many of Mr. Graham's friends, loudly applauded Judge Dechant's decision.

The entire hearing revolved around the "bond feature" of the case. C. A. and L. B. Weldon, this city, and John P. Phillips, Jr., of Chillicothe, attorneys for Graham, contended that the Ohio laws governing contested elections require that a proper bond accompany the filing of a petition appealing a board of elections decision.

This bond, they said, had to be "a written promise" that the plaintiff, Mr. Cady, would be responsible for the costs of the case regardless of the outcome.

Mayor Cady had deposited $50 in cash with the clerk of courts when he filed the petition but this did not constitute proper bond, Graham's attorneys argued.

Found No Precedent

E. L. Crist and George G. Adkins, attorneys for Cady, said that there had been no Ohio court cases decided on this issue and that the court itself would have to interpret and decide the merits of the case.

In announcing his decision, Judge Dechant said: "In deciding contested election cases of this kind, the courts have always closely followed the provisions of the statutes. In this case it appears that the plaintiff, Mr. Cady, has not complied with the provisions of the law in filing a proper bond within the proper time limit and so I cannot do anything else but dismiss the petition at the cost of the plaintiff."

Graham's attorneys had argued that since Cady's petition, without proper bond accompanying it, did not comply with the Ohio statutes governing such cases, the court had no jurisdiction to hear the case. E. L. Crist, co-counsel for Cady, answered: "When attorneys for Mr. Graham attack the jurisdiction of the court and at the same time answer to the court, they are in the court and are recognizing its jurisdiction."

Cite Other States

Attorneys for both sides spent more than an hour citing other cases of similar nature which had been decided in other states.

The contested election proceedings started on Nov. 6 when a check by the board of elections showed that Mr. Graham and Mr. Cady each had received 1375 votes. Graham was then chosen by lot.

Mr. Cady then filed a petition seeking a recount of the votes in five of the nine city precincts. Mr. Graham countered with a request for a recount in the four remaining precincts. The complete recount revealed that Mr. Graham had received 1,379 votes and Mr. Cady, 1,378. Mr. Cady then filed a petition in charging irregularities at the election. Among those charges were that certain ballots had been cast for Mr. Graham by minors; certain other ballots cast for Graham were voted by non-residents of the city and that the board of elections had mutilated and defaced other ballots which should have been cast for Mr. Cady.

Mr. Graham filed an answer to

Weather Bureau Reports
Weather to Be Colder

A white Christmas was promised for Ohio at noon today by the weather bureau. Snow flurries with lower temperatures was the prediction for Tuesday.

Two inches of snow had descended on the city at 7 a. m. Monday making walking and driving hazardous. Several serious accidents were caused by the slippery highways near the city over the week-end.

Dr. H. R. Clarke reported the mercury was at nine degrees at 7 a. m. Monday and the highest Sunday was 20 degrees. The weather caused numerous hiccups to add sleds to their lists prepared for Santa Claus and coasting parties were in progress in many sections of the city.

QUEBEC, Dec. 23 — (INS) — The mercury went to 26 below zero today at Lake Edward and other points in the province of Quebec recorded extreme cold. Joliette, 60 miles from here, recorded 18 below. Charlesbourg, on the outskirts of Quebec, had 10 below temperature and it was five below in Quebec itself.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 23 — (INS) — While plans were being completed for the funeral services for United States Senator Thomas D. Schall, to be held here tomorrow, speculation was already rife as to who his successor in the senate would be.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson, head of the state's Farm-Labor party and friend of the Roosevelt administration, bitterly fought and criticized by Schall, announced he would not resign the governorship to fill out the unexpired term. He had previously announced he would oppose Schall in the senatorial election in 1936.

Gov. Olson revealed he would appoint a successor to Schall in the immediate future, probably before congress re-convenes. Likely appointees are paid to be Frank W. Murphy of Wheaton, and Chief Justice John P. DeVane of the state supreme court.

Meanwhile, Republican leaders suggested that the blind senator's widow be a candidate in the June primaries for the seat held for two terms by her husband.

Sen. Schall died in Washington yesterday, of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile last Thursday. He was 58.

Only 32, soft-spoken and mild-mannered, Ness hardly looks the part. But his record speaks for him, since he, himself, is reluctant to discuss it. He has packed the 10 years since he graduated from University of Chicago with excitement and achievement.

Didn't Study to Be G-Man

Although he "majored" in commerce, Ness turned immediately after he left college to investigation work. He served for a year as private agent for an insurance company. Then, before he was 24 years old, he became a U. S. prohibition agent.

Next followed several years as an agent under the department of justice—a "G-man." It was in that period that he won his enviable reputation as an officer of the law.

Internal revenue agents were already at work developing their

All details had been arranged today for the Christmas eve party of Howard Hall post American Legion for the city's children. The party will, as usual, take place at the courthouse with a Santa Claus and everything.

It will start at 7:30 p. m. with chimes to be played in the courthouse. The divine blessing will be offered by the Rev. Herman A. Sayre after which bearded Saint Nicholas will put in his appearance.

Santa will distribute 1,000 bags of candy and fruit prepared by the Legion and financed through popular subscription.

In case of bad weather the celebration will be held in Memorial hall.

JOHN M'SWEENEY TO RUN FOR CONGRESS AT LARGE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 23 — (INS) — John McSweeney, Wooster attorney and welfare director in the cabinet of former Gov. George White, today entered the race for the Democratic nomination for congress at large.

McSweeney, who obtained nominating petitions from the secretary of state's office to be circulated in behalf of his candidacy, also formerly represented the sixteenth district in Congress.

JUDGE DECHANT DECIDES PROPER BOND NOT RECORDED IN APPEAL; GRAHAM TAKES OFFICE JANUARY 1

Hearing Before Warren-co Barrister Ends in Less Than Two Hours After Its Start; Decision is Cheered by Witnesses

Incumbent, Declares He is Through Successful Candidate to Appoint His Aides Soon

William J. Graham, E. Mound-st., will become mayor of Circleville on January 1.

In a hearing lasting less than two hours, Judge Charles B. Dechant of Lebanon, determined that fact Monday morning when he dismissed Mayor W. B. Cady's petition charging election irregularities on the ground that the petition when filed was not accompanied by the proper bond.

"I'm Through"—Cady

A crowded court room, which included many of Mr. Graham's friends, loudly applauded Judge Dechant's decision.

The entire hearing revolved around the "bond feature" of the case, C. A. and L. B. Weldon, this city, and John P. Phillips, Jr., of Chillicothe, attorneys for Graham, contended that the Ohio laws governing contested elections require that a proper bond accompany the filing of a petition appealing a board of elections decision. This bond, they said, had to be "a written promise" that the plaintiff, Mr. Cady, would be responsible for the costs of the case regardless of the outcome.

Mayor Cady had deposited $50 in cash with the clerk of courts when he filed the petition but this did not constitute proper bond, Grahams' attorneys argued.

E. L. Crist and George G. Adkins, attorneys for Cady, said that there had been no Ohio court cases decided on this issue and that the court itself would have to interpret and decide the merits of the case.

In announcing his decision, Judge Dechant said: "In deciding contested election cases of this kind, the courts have always closely followed the provisions of the statutes. In this case it appears that the plaintiff, Mr. Cady, has not complied with the provisions of the law in filing a proper bond within the proper time limit and so I cannot do anything else but dismiss the petition at the cost of the plaintiff."

Graham's attorneys had argued that since Cady's petition, without proper bond accompanying it, did not comply with the Ohio statutes governing such cases, the court had no jurisdiction to hear the case. E. L. Crist, co-counsel for Cady, answered: "When attorneys for Mr. Graham attack the jurisdiction of the court and at the same time answer to the court, they are in the court and are recognizing its jurisdiction."

Attorneys for both sides spent more than an hour citing other cases of similar nature which had been decided in other states. The contested election proceedings started on Nov. 6 when a check by the board of elections showed that Mr. Graham and Mr. Cady each had received 1375 votes. Graham was then chosen by lot.

Mr. Cady then filed a petition seeking a recount of the votes in five of the nine city precincts. Mr. Graham countered with a request for a recount in the four remaining precincts. The complete recount revealed that Mr. Graham had received 1379 votes and Mr. Cady, 1,376. Mr. Cady then filed a petition in charging irregularities at the election. Among those charges were that certain ballots had been cast for Mr. Graham by minors; certain other ballots cast for Graham were voted by non-residents of the city and that the board of elections had mutilated and defaced other ballots which should have been cast for Mr. Cady.

Mr. Graham filed an answer to

WHITE HOLIDAY PROMISED CITY

Weather Bureau Reports Weather to Be Colder

A white Christmas was forecast for Ohio at noon today by the weather bureau. Snow flurries with lower temperatures was the prediction for Tuesday.

Two inches of snow had descended on the city at 7 a. m. Monday making walking and driving hazardous. Several serious accidents were caused by the slippery highways near the city over the week-end.

Dr. H. R. Clarke reported the mercury was at nine degrees at 7 a. m. Monday and the highest Sunday was 20 degrees. The weather caused numerous kiddies to add sleds to their lists prepared for Santa Claus and coasting parties were in progress in many sections of the city.

QUEBEC, Dec. 23 — (INS) — The mercury went to 26 below zero today at Lake Edward and other points in the province of Quebec recorded extreme cold. Joliette, 60 miles from here, recorded 18 below. Charlesbourg, on the outskirts of Quebec, had 10 below temperature and it was five below in Quebec itself.

RIGHTS OF WAY WORKERS FOR LIGHT PROGRAM MEET

Workers obtaining the rights of way for the county electrification program will meet in the Farm Bureau offices Friday at 1:30 p. m.

They plan to check county roads to complete their program. Marvin Steele, county chairman, will be in charge of the meeting. Approximately 1,000 rights of way blanks have been issued.

WHEN THE BUS FALLS DRAWBRIDGE

Trapped Inside Vehicle;
Authorities Seeking to Identify Dead

HOPEWELL, Va., Dec. 23.—The bridge across the Appomattox was back in service today after the steel aprons of its drawbridge fell noisily under each wheel of a bus.

Two different undertakers' establishments lay the bodies of a man and woman, carried to a funeral home when a big motor bus in which they were riding ran through the open draw yesterday and came to rest in about 30 feet of water and mud on the river's bottom.

The expressions on their faces and the grotesque postures of their bodies told without need of words, the "suffering" they must have experienced the few moments they were alive in the water-filled bus.

Icy Surface Blamed

Operated by G. A. Alford, 40, who was among the victims because no one inside the bus escaped drowning, the heavy vehicle is believed to have skidded on the bridge's icy surface. The bridge's stop signal was displayed. Some investigators also hinted the driver's brakes might have been frozen.

On board, besides the chauffeur, were seven white women, four negroes and two white men. It will be quite some time before all of their bodies are identified. Some of the passengers were believed to have been enroute to destinations in the south for Christmas. Their identity will not be known until relatives or friends call to hear from them and come here to view the bodies in the two private morgues.

The bus, of the Atlantic Greyhound lines, left Richmond at 8 a. m. for Raleigh, N. C., via Hopewell. It never reached this town. The bridge, the draw of which Lacey McNair operates, is located just outside of this city.

McNair had his stop signal—a white and black painted guard—against traffic but he insisted that he did not see the bus.

"I heard my gate bust," he said, and looked around just in time to see the bus topple through the draw into the water."

Divers Employed

It required 13 hours of tedious work, performed against sharp winds and biting cold, to raise the bus. First expert divers had to go under water to fasten huge steel cables around the vehicle's hull. Two heavy cranes, one on the bridge and one on a barge, did the hoisting.

The front of the bus was buried in the mud, in the same position it fell off the bridge, hurling the men and women passengers, many of whom were bound for a holiday with their families, up to the front in a great heap.

One passenger, Capt. John B. Welch, a ship captain of this city, was thrown so forcibly to the front of the bus that his body broke either the windshield or a front window. His body floated to the surface soon after the bus fell. His head and body was badly gashed.

All of the dead tumbled into a heap in the rear of the bus when it was hauled up to the surface last night. Undertakers' wagons were waiting, each body was placed in a basket and carried to the two morgues.

All the bodies, except that of Chauffeur Alford, which was found pinned behind the wheel, were sprawled in gruesome postures on the rear seat and across other back seats.

Some had scratched and bruised hands and faces, suffered perhaps when they were flung bodily to the front of the bus when it made its fatal dive, or inflicted during their desperate attempts to break free of their water-filled tomb.

McNair had opened the draw to permit a tug and a barge to pass through.

Drawn Into Thelma Todd Probe

ANOTHER Hollywood figure drawn into the official probe of the death of Thelma Todd is Margaret Lindsay, screen actress, who is reported engaged to Pat Di Cicco, former husband of Thelma. Miss Lindsay and Di Cicco are above. Miss Lindsay was with Di Cicco at the same night club the evening Thelma was feted by a party in her honor, was subpoenaed by the grand jury as a witness in the case. Meanwhile, Di Cicco, who took an airplane flight to New York "to spend the holidays with my family," said he would return to Hollywood to aid authorities in their searching investigation of the mysterious death of the blonde actress.

New Downtown Studios Of WLW are Completed

All Outside Broadcasts Concentrated; New Metropolitan Tenor to Sing on Sunday Evening Concert

CINCINNATI, Dec. 23.—The new downtown studios of WLW, WSAI and WXAL are now practically completed and regular broadcasting is being done from them.

Construction of the new studios, was announced some months ago by Powell Crosley, Jr. Their purpose, as stated at the time by Mr. Crosley, is to concentrate in one place most of the outside broadcasts that could not be accommodated for lack of sufficient room in the studios at the factory on Arlington-st. Studios, which had been situated in different downtown locations, have been combined in the new studios. Broadcasting of program is still continued from the studios at the factory because the facilities of both are required.

The new studios offer a number of important features, unexcelled by those of any other broadcasting station. The music department is arranged in a manner for the greatest convenience. All the duties of the library, the music arrangers, copyists, conductors, vocal directors and clerical help adjoin one another. Arrangers are assigned individual miniature studios of their own, sound-proof and conducive to accurate musical writing. The separate studio idea for arrangers was incorporated from the latest used in the most modern studios in Hollywood and the leading moving picture studios of the country.

Charles Kullmann, new Metropolitan Opera tenor, will be guest soloist with the Symphony Orchestra and Chorus, under the direction of Victor Kolar, in the Sunday Evening Hour, Dec. 29. The program will be heard from 9 to 10 p. m. E. S. T., over the complete coast-to-coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Mr. Kullmann will sing the "Flower Song" from Carmen by Bizet; Rachmaninoff's "In the Silence of the Night"; "Lolita" by Buzzi-Peccia; "Summer Evening" by Palmgren, and "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms," by Moore.

Ben Bernie is preparing a special New Year's Eve program for the old folks who like the old-time hit tunes. The Old Maestro will present as his guests several members from the cast of the Broadway production, "The Gay Nineties," who will play and sing for young guys and gals. The same evening Fred Waring will also do a little reviving by playing numbers he featured during the year, which have proved most popular with listeners. Get out your song sheets, folks, and join in.

Al Capone's Profits

But the 10 Capone breweries were running at full tilt, bringing $55,000 a day in beer receipts into the Capone coffers. Of that amount, 82 per cent was clear profit.

It is Ness who was given credit for smashing that far-flung beer business. He was authorized to select special agents, and Ness and his staff developed an airtight conspiracy case against the Capones.

He turned to another federal bureau, the alcohol tax unit. He came to Cleveland a year ago as chief investigator. Then, a few weeks after Burton took office in Cleveland, Ness was enlisted as director of the city's police and fire department.

No Time Lost

Ness began functioning at once, in a smooth, quiet way. There were no drastic changes in personnel. To become more familiar with the situation, he personally led various police squads in regular duties.

He does not pretend to be an expert in police science, but he does have some definite, matter-of-fact ideas about the operation of a police force. To him, a police department is like a business concern, and should operate, he believes, as efficiently.

same kind of irregularities on Mr. Cady's part.

Judge Dechant ended the case this morning when he decided that proper bond did not accompany Cady's petition and dismissed the appeal.

Will Select Aides

Mayor-Elect Graham in an informal statement following the court's decision said he was "very happy" about the outcome. He said he would be ready to announce his major appointments within a few days. These include the posts of deputy director, and service director which are now held by L. T. Shaner and W. M. Justus, respectively.

Mr. Graham also said he would prepare a formal statement setting out some of the aims he hopes to accomplish in his administration of the office of mayor. "I have no axes to grind, no relatives to pass out jobs to, I'm simply going to try to distribute all the work fairly and on an impartial basis," he said.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the decay of this decay all over our body. It makes us nervous, grumpy and no good for anything. What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our food can't digest it. What is the life juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and 75 per cent of our food decays in our bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six months. When our friends smell our bad breath that we don't and we feel like a whiffed tomato, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which will start the flow of your life juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a colored (mercury) pill which loosens teeth, gripes and seals the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25c, 1934, C.M.C.

G-MEN SILENT ON MILNE INQUIRY; YOUTH GUARDED

Victim Virtual Prisoner; Hotel Clerk Says Writer Was Hotel Guest

WOODSTOCK, N. Y., Dec. 23.—(INS).—The unsolved kidnaping of Caleb J. Milne, 4th, was supplemented with further mystery today.

The 23-year-old Philadelphia society actor and writer appeared to be a virtual prisoner in the home of his mother here.

Why he should be kept in his room when he is well enough to walk outside, why he is forbidden to talk even to his closest relatives about his abduction and why a federal agent keeps a close watch over his room nightly are a few of the unanswered phases of the bizarre case.

G-men, on guard outside the Milne home, flatly refused to discuss the case, other than to say the youth, who disappeared from his home in New York a week ago Saturday and then was found bound and gagged and drugged with morphine in a ditch near Doylestown, Pa., Wednesday night, was in good shape physically.

Meantime from Philadelphia came a report that Phillip McMahon, hotel clerk at Chester, Pa., had identified a picture of Milne as that of a guest who had registered at his hotel last Tuesday night.

The guest, according to McMahon's story, registered at 11:45 p. m. as Harry McLaughlin. This was twenty-two hours before Milne was found.

Illustrative of the cloak of secrecy the G-men have thrown about the case was the re-action of Milne's physician, Dr. Charles Parson, when he was asked if the marks of a hypodermic needle on the youth's left arm indicated numerous morphine injections during his captivity. He said: "I can't talk about that."

May Hunt Physician Federal men were said to be working on the theory that one of the kidnapers was a physician or a man well versed in the use of medicine.

LINER REFLOATED AFTER BEING GROUNDED IN EAST

CAPE MAY, N. J., Dec. 23.—The United Fruit Liner Ipona, which went aground on the Brandywine flats off here last night, was refloated this morning and is proceeding toward Philadelphia under her own power.

The vessel was pulled off the flats by the coast guard cutters Mohawk and Menolita. It was undamaged.

The liner carried ten passengers and a crew of fifty.

According to coast guard officers here, both passengers and crew maintained excellent morale while the vessel was aground.

The Ipona, bearing a cargo of bananas, was bound for Philadelphia and New York from South America. It was due in Philadelphia tomorrow.

All the passengers were said to be Philadelphians.

Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis! BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

Every county in the state is enrolled in the campaign against tuberculosis through the sale of Christmas Seals, according to a statement issued today by the Ohio Public Health Association. Even in the one county of the state where there is no health commissioner, public-spirited citizens have formed a public health association and have engaged a public health nurse. In several counties, city public health organizations have been formed, in addition to the county associations.

According to the latest information gathered by the Ohio Public Health Association, 76 of the 88 counties have public health nurses and 35 conduct clinics for persons afflicted with tuberculosis. There are now 13 county and district sanatoriums, with a capacity of about 2000.

Cleveland has three municipal sanatoriums with a capacity of upwards of a thousand beds. Cleveland also has a preventorium with a capacity of 60 beds, while preventorium in Hamilton and Franklin counties have capacities of 100 and 25 beds, respectively.

There is one Federal sanatorium in the state, this being located at the National Soldiers Home at Dayton. It has a capacity of 250 beds. The capacity of the State sanatorium at Mt. Vernon is 240. The reports show that there are five open air schools in the state, in Cuyahoga, Summit, Mahoning, Lucas and Franklin counties, with a possible enrollment of 1100. There are 18 health camps with accommodations for upwards of 1500.

Eighteen public institutions, the report reveals, have accommodations for the care of tuberculosis patients confined in them, totaling upwards of 1000 persons. In addition to these facilities, there are a number of private institutions for the care of persons afflicted with tuberculosis.

According to Dr. E. R. Hiatt, president of the Ohio Public Health Association, practically all of the foregoing facilities for the cure and treatment of tuberculosis have been established through the stimulation of the Christmas Seal workers.

MRS. LYNCH NEAR 100; BECOMES 99 ON FEBRUARY 22

On Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, a Circleville resident will also celebrate her natal anniversary—her 99th.

She is Mrs. Lucinda Lynch, snowy haired negro, who makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Wilson on Mingo-st.

Mrs. Lynch was born and reared in Circleville. Her childhood home was Franklin and Pickaway-sts, the present location of Goeller's paint store.

For more than 30 years Mrs. Lynch was a cook in local hotels, her first position being with the old Pickaway House formerly on the postoffice site. She has been a member of the local A. M. E. church for 50 years.

Although her health seems fairly good, Mrs. Lynch has been unable to walk for over a year as the result of a slight stroke.

FARM MANAGEMENT MEETINGS SUCCESS

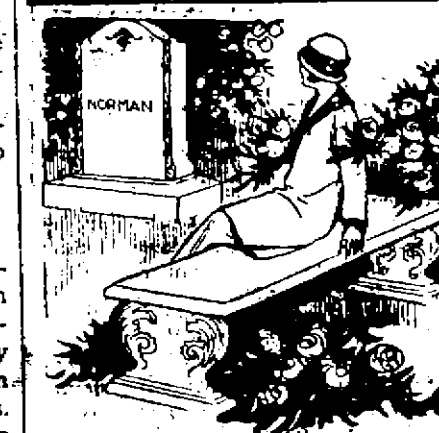

The farm management meetings held last week at the Farm Bureau offices proved so successful the members voted to form a permanent organization, meeting the second Wednesday of each month.

The series of meetings closed with a banquet and motion picture show presented by the International Harvester Co.

An organization meeting for the election of officers will be held Jan. 8. About 25 young farmers attended the sessions.

THEFT INVESTIGATED

Police officers reported Irvin Jones, local resident, was being held in the city jail for investigation of the theft of some corn from a county resident. No charge had been filed against Jones at the time of police court Monday morning.

BEER TRUCK DAMAGED

A truck of the Ohio Distributing Co. was brought to Circleville Monday morning on a wrecker for repairs resulting from an accident Friday at McCunesville, a village near New Lexington. The company reported a tie rod on the truck broke while it was going down a hill and it crashed into the front of a barber shop. Earl Stout, driver, and Alfred Harrington, assistant, escaped injury. The cargo was not damaged.

14 DROWN WHEN HUGE BUS FALLS OFF DRAWBRIDGE

All Trapped Inside Vehicle;
Authorities Seeking to
Identify Dead

HOPEWELL, Va., Dec. 23—(INS)—The bridge across the Appomattox was back in service today, the steel aprons of its draw rattling noisily under each wheel tread.

In two different undertakers' establishments lay the bodies of 14 men and women, carried to a horrible death when a big motor bus in which they were riding ran through the open draw yesterday and came to rest in about 30 feet of water and mud on the river's bottom.

The expressions on their faces and the grotesque postures of their bodies told without need of words, the suffering they must have experienced the few moments they were alive in the water-filled bus.

Icy Surface Blamed

Operated by G. A. Alford, 40, who was among the victims because no one inside the bus escaped drowning, the heavy vehicle is believed to have skidded on the bridge's icy surface. The bridge tender's stop signal was displayed. Some investigators also hinted the bus' brakes might have been frozen.

On board, besides the chauffeur, were seven white women, four negroes and two white men. It will be quite some time before all of their bodies are identified. Some of the passengers were believed to have been enroute to destinations in the south for Christmas. Their identity will not be known until relatives or friends fall to hear from them and come here to view the bodies in the two private morgues.

McNair had his stop signal—a white and black painted guards rail bearing a red light—lowered against traffic but he insisted that he did not see the bus.

Divers Employed

It required 13 hours of tedious work, performed against sharp winds and biting cold, to raise the bus. First expert divers had to go under water to fasten huge steel cables around the vehicle's hulk. Two heavy cranes, one on the bridge and one on a barge, did the hoisting.

The front of the bus was buried in the mud, in the same position it fell off the bridge, hurling the men and women passengers, many of whom were bound for a holiday with their families, up to the front in a great heap.

One passenger, Capt. John B. Welch, a ship captain of this city, was thrown so forcibly to the front of the bus that his body broke either the windshield or a front window. His body floated to the surface soon after the bus fell. His head and body was badly gashed.

All of the dead tumbled into a heap in the rear of the bus when it was hauled up to the surface last night. Undertakers' wagons were waiting, each body was placed in a basket and carried to the two morgues.

All the bodies, except that of Chauffeur Alford, which was found pinned behind the wheel, were sprawled in gruesome postures on the rear seat and across other back seats.

Some had scratched and bruised hands and faces, suffered perhaps when they were flung bodily to the front of the bus when it made its fatal dive, or inflicted during their desperate attempts to break free of their water-filled tomb.

McNair had opened the draw to permit a tug and a barge to pass through.

Investigations were started by local, state and federal authorities, but the first goal of the bus company is to try to identify the dead.

Drawn Into Thelma Todd Probe

ANOTHER Hollywood figure drawn into the official probe of the death of Thelma Todd is Margaret Lindsay, screen actress, who is reported engaged to Pat Di Cicco, former husband of Thelma. Miss Lindsay and Di Cicco are above. Miss Lindsay, who was with Di Cicco at the same night club the evening Thelma was feted by a party in her honor, was subpoenaed by the grand jury as a witness in the case. Meanwhile, Di Cicco, who took an airplane flight to New York "to spend the holidays with my family," said he would return to Hollywood to aid authorities in their searching investigation of the mysterious death of the blonde actress.

New Downtown Studios Of WLW are Completed

CINCINNATI, Dec. 23—The new downtown studios of WLW, WSAI and WXAL are now practically completed and regular broadcasting is being done from them.

Construction of the new studios, was announced some months ago by Powell Crosley, Jr. Their purpose, as stated at the time by Mr. Crosley, is to concentrate in one place most of the outside broadcasts that could not be accommodated for lack of sufficient room in the studios at the factory on Arlington-st. Studios, which had been situated in different downtown locations, have been combined in the new studios. Broadcasting of program is still continued from the studios at the factory because the facilities of both are required.

The new studios offer a number of important features, unexcelled by those of any other broadcasting station. The music department is arranged in a manner for the greatest convenience. All the duties of the library, the music arrangers, copyists, conductors, vocal directors and clerical help adjoin one another. Arrangers are assigned individual miniature studios of their own, sound-proof and conducive to accurate musical writing. The separate studio idea for arrangers was incorporated from the latest used in the most modern studios in Hollywood and the leading moving picture studios of the country.

Charles Kullmann, new Metropolitan Opera tenor, will be guest soloist with the Symphony Orchestra and Chorus, under the direction of Victor Kolar, in the Sunday Evening Hour, Dec. 29. The program will be heard from 9 to 10 p. m. E.S.T., over the complete coast-to-coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Mr. Kullmann will sing the "Flower Song" from Carmen by Bizet; Rachmaninoff's "In the Silence of the Night"; "Lolita" by Buzzi-Peccia; "Summer Evening" by Palmgren, and "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms," by Moore.

Ben Bernie is preparing a special New Year's Eve program for the old folks who like the old-time hit tunes. The Old Maestro will present as his guests several members from the east of the Broadway production. The Gay Nineties, who will play and sing for young guys and gals. The same evening Fred Waring will also do a little reviving by playing numbers he featured during the year, which have proved most popular with listeners. Get out your song sheets, folks, and join in.

Premier Laval, a distinguished sort of a chap along many lines, will hardly make the grade as a model for what the well-dressed statesman should wear.

income tax evasion case against Al and Ralph Capone, gang overlords.

Al Capone's Profits

But the 10 Capone breweries were running at full tilt, bringing $55,000 a day in beer receipts into the Capone coffers. Of that amount, 82 per cent was clear profit.

It is Ness who was given credit for smashing that far-flung beer business. He was authorized to select special agents, and Ness and his staff developed an airtight conspiracy case against the Capones.

He turned to another federal bureau, the alcohol-tax unit. He came to Cleveland a year ago as chief investigator. Then, a few weeks after Burton took office in Cleveland, Ness was enlisted as director of the city's police and fire department.

No Time Lost

Ness began functioning at once, in a smooth, quiet way. There were no drastic changes in personnel. To become more familiar with the situation, he personally led various police squads in regular duties.

He does not pretend to be an expert in police science, but he does have some definite, matter-of-fact ideas about the operation of a police force. To him, a police department is like a business concern, and should operate, he believes, as efficiently.

same kind of irregularities on Mr. Cady's part.

Judge Dechant ended the case this morning when he decided that proper bond did not accompany Cady's petition and dismissed the appeal.

Will Select Aides

Mayor-Elect Graham in an informal statement following the court's decision said he was "very happy" about the outcome. He said he would be ready to announce his major appointments within a few days. These include the posts of safety director and service director which are now held by L. T. Shaner and W. M. Justus, respectively.

Mr. G. maharlaw

Mr. Graham also said he would prepare a formal statement setting out some of the aims he hopes to accomplish in his administration of the office of mayor. "I have no axes to grind, no relatives to pass out jobs to, I'm simply going to try to distribute all the work fairly and on an impartial basis," he said.

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and 3/4 of our food decays in our 23 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six months.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomcat, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and sours the stomach in many weeks. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25c. 1934, C.M.Co.

G-MEN SILENT ON MILNE INQUIRY; YOUTH GUARDED

Victim Virtual Prisoner; Hotel Clerk Says Writer Was Hotel Guest

WOODSTOCK, N. Y., Dec. 23—(INS)—The unsolved kidnaping of Caleb J. Milne, 4th, was supplemented with further mystery today.

The 23-year-old Philadelphia society actor and writer appeared to be a virtual prisoner in the home of his mother here.

Why he should be kept in his room when he is well enough to walk outside, why he is forbidden to talk even to his closest relatives about his abduction and why a federal agent keeps a close watch over his room nightly are a few of the unanswered phases of the bizarre case.

G-men, on guard outside the Milne home, flatly refused to discuss the case, other than to say the youth, who disappeared from his home in New York a week ago Saturday and then was found bound and gagged and drugged with morphine in a ditch near Doylestown, Pa., Wednesday night, was in good shape physically.

Meantime from Philadelphia came a report that Philip McMahon, hotel clerk at Chester, Pa., had identified a picture of Milne as that of a guest who had registered at his hotel last Tuesday night.

The guest, according to McMahon's story, registered at 11:45 p. m. as Harry McLaughlin. There was twenty-two hours before Milne was found.

Illustrative of the cloak of secrecy the G-Men have thrown about the case was the re-action of Wilno's physician, Dr. Charles Parson, when he was asked if the marks of a hypodermic needle on the youth's left arm indicated numerous morphine injections during his captivity. He said: "I can't talk about that."

May Hunt Physician
Federal men were said to be working on the theory that one of the kidnapers was a physician or a man well versed in the use of medicine.

LINER RELOADED AFTER BEING GROUNDED IN EAST

CAPE MAY, N. J., Dec. 23—The United Fruit Liner Ipona, which went aground on the Brandywine flats off here last night, was reloaded this morning and is proceeding toward Philadelphia under her own power. The vessel was pulled off the flats by the coast guard cutters Mohawk and Mendota. It was undamaged.

The liner carried ten passengers and a crew of fifty.

According to coast guard officers here, both passengers and crew maintained excellent morale while the vessel was aground.

The Ipona, bearing a cargo of bananas, was bound for Philadelphia and New York from South America. It was due in Philadelphia tomorrow.

All the passengers were said to be Philadelphians.

TWO TRAFFIC VICTIMS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 23—(INS)—After twenty-one days with no automobile fatalities, accidents had taken the lives of two Columbus residents today.

Ralph F. Helmick, 31, manager of the Boda Tire and Service Company, was killed when his car crashed through a viaduct wall and fell into the railroad yards forty feet below. His wife escaped with a scalp wound.

Dorothy S. Slocum, 20-year-old teacher in the Gahanna grade school died from a skull fracture suffered in a collision while returning from church services at Orient, O.

BLUMENFELD FACES COURT

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 23—(INS)—Isadore Blumenfeld, alias Gid Cann, is to be arraigned here today for the murder of Walter Liggett, crusading publisher and editor who was assassinated by machinegunners the evening of Dec. 8.

Cann, who has been identified as the slayer by Mrs. Edith Liggett, the editor's widow, and another eye-witness, was indicted by the grand jury late Friday.

Cann is expected to plead not guilty.

Recipes

A MODERN MENU

- Stuffed Celery, Ripe Olives, Radishes
- Ham Patties, Cream Gravy
- Baked Potatoes Broccoli, Hollandaise
- Rolls and Butter
- Tomato Jelly Salad
- Cheese Cake
- Coffee
- Nuts, Raisins, Mints

Of course the salad and first course may be omitted, and the broccoli simply served with melted butter—to make a more simple menu. Recipes for this dish are elsewhere on this page with the Shrimp Cocktail given here:

Use fresh shrimp, six large cooked or canned shrimp for each cocktail. Be sure to remove the shells from the fresh cooked shrimp, and from either the cooked or canned, remove the dark vein. Wash the shrimp then in cold water. Drain, and sprinkle with French dressing. Let stand until very cold in the refrigerator.

Make a cocktail sauce of two thirds of chili sauce and one third mixed horseradish. Arrange a generous spoonful of the mixture on a very little, curly lettuce leaf. Arrange the six shrimp around this leaf on a small salad plate, or hors d'oeuvre plate, or on a decorative shell intended for such service. Serve a small sea food fork with this cocktail.

BANANA AND APPLE TART

Two cups bread cubes; two tablespoons butter; one apple; two bananas; one half cup sugar; one half teaspoon cinnamon.

Cut bread into dice and saute in butter until brown. Peel apple and bananas, and slice thin. Dredge with sugar mixed with cinnamon. Cover bottom of baking dish with bread, add fruit and remaining bread in alternate layers, saving a few of the crumbs to put on top. Bake thirty minutes covered, and fifteen minutes uncovered, in moderate oven, 375 degrees F.

RICE WITH CUSTARD

Steam three fourths cup of rice with two cups of milk and one teaspoon salt in double boiler about forty-five minutes until rice is tender. Put in custard cups to mold; chill, and turn out in individual dishes. Surround with sliced bananas and soft caramel custard.

Caramelized sugar by stirring over low fire until melted. Add to scalded milk, stir until dissolved; then add to flour mixed with beaten egg yolks. Cook in double boiler about ten minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens; then add vanilla.

BANANA-TAPIoca CREAM

One and one half cups milk; one tablespoon granulated tapioca; one eighth teaspoon salt; one egg; one fourth cup sugar; one fourth teaspoon grated orange peel; one banana.

Scald milk in double boiler, add tapioca and salt. Cook fifteen minutes, stir frequently. Pour slowly over beaten egg yolk to which sugar has been added, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and stir until mixture thickens. Remove from fire and add grated orange peel. Quarter banana lengthwise, slice into tapioca cream. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Serve chilled. Four portions.

COUNTIAN LOSES FOUR RED HOGS

Porkers Taken from Feed Lot of J. F. Willis, Atlanta

Four red hogs were stolen from the feed lot of J. F. Willis, Perrytown farmer, Saturday night. Sheriff Charles Radcliff was notified.

The hogs were not butchered, Mr. Willis reported, but were carried from the lot to a nearby truck or auto.

Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

Every county in the state is enrolled in the campaign against tuberculosis through the sale of Christmas Seals, according to a statement issued today by the Ohio Public Health Association. Even in the one county of the state where there is no health commissioner, public-spirited citizens have formed a public health association and have engaged a public health nurse. In several counties, city public health organizations have been formed, in addition to the county associations.

According to the latest information gathered by the Ohio Public Health Association, 76 of the 88 counties have public health nurses and 35 conduct clinics for persons afflicted with tuberculosis. There are now 13 county and district sanatoriums, with a capacity of about 2000.

Cleveland has three municipal sanatoriums with a capacity of upwards of a thousand beds. Cleveland also has a preventorium with a capacity of 60 beds, while preventorium in Hamilton and Franklin counties have capacities of 100 and 25 beds, respectively.

There is one Federal sanatorium in the state, this being located at the National Soldiers Home at Dayton. It has a capacity of 250 beds. The capacity of the State sanatorium at Mt. Vernon is 240. The reports show that there are five open air schools in the state, in Cuyahoga, Summit, Mahoning, Lucas and Franklin counties, with a possible enrollment of 1100. There are 16 health camps with accommodations for upwards of 1500.

Eighteen public institutions, the report reveals, have accommodations for the care of tuberculosis patients confined in them, totaling upwards of 1000 persons. In addition to these facilities, there are a number of private institutions for the care of persons afflicted with tuberculosis.

According to Dr. E. R. Hiatt, president of the Ohio Public Health Association, practically all of the foregoing facilities for the care and treatment of tuberculosis have been established through the stimulation of the Christmas Seal workers.

2,000 TO ATTEND TEACHERS' MEET

Central Ohio Association Gathers December 26-28

More than 2,000 school teachers and administrators representing all the school districts of the state will gather in Columbus on Dec. 26-28 for the annual holiday convention of the Ohio Education association, according to Walton B. Bliss, executive secretary of the organization. Matters of business routine and formulation of association policies for the coming year will occupy the attention of the delegate assembly.

Twenty departmental groups affiliated with the association will conduct separate meetings for consideration of subjects related to their specialized field.

Speakers at the General Sessions of the convention will be Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, president of Washington and Jefferson College; Superintendent of Schools E. C. Hartwell of Buffalo, New York; Milton S. Campbell, Commander Ohio department, American Legion; and E. L. Bowsher, Director of Education in Ohio. Other out-of-state speakers include Dr. G. T. Buswell of the University of Chicago; Dr. W. H. Gaumnitz, specialist in Rural Education, Department of Education, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Howard A. Dawson, Research Assistant of the National Education Association, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Franklin J. Keller, Director National Occupational Conference, New York, and Dr. F. C. Rosecrance, School of Education, Northwestern University, Chicago.

MRS. LYNCH NEAR 100; BECOMES 99 ON FEBRUARY 22

On Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, a Circleville resident will also celebrate her natal anniversary—her 99th.

She is Mrs. Lucinda Lynch, snowy haired negro, who makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Wilson on Mingo-st.

Mrs. Lynch was born and reared in Circleville. Her childhood home was Franklin and Pickaway-sts., the present location of Goeller's paint store.

For more than 30 years Mrs. Lynch was a cook in local hotels, her first position being with the old Pickaway House formerly on the postoffice site. She has been a member of the local A. M. E. church for 50 years.

Although her health seems fairly good, Mrs. Lynch has been unable to walk for over a year as the result of a slight stroke.

FARM MANAGEMENT MEETINGS SUCCESS

The farm management meetings held last week at the Farm Bureau offices proved so successful the members voted to form a permanent organization, meeting the second Wednesday of each month.

The series of meetings closed with a banquet and motion picture show presented by the International Harvester Co.

An organization meeting for the election of officers will be held Jan. 8. About 25 young farmers attended the sessions.

THEFT INVESTIGATED

Police officers reported Irvin Jones, local resident, was being held in the city jail for investigation of the theft of some corn from a county resident. No charge had been filed against Jones at the time of police court Monday morning.

INTELLIGENT JURY SERVICE

ONE of our national institutions which is under almost constant attack from one quarter or another is the jury system, which concededly falls far short of perfection but which, occasionally rises to heights which reflect the perfection of justice.

A notable example of this character is to be found in the case of the jury of fer-mers at Centerville, Mo., who found Joseph L. Huett guilty of manslaughter. In describing how they reached the verdict,
one of the jurors said:

"We paid no attention to the arguments of the lawyers. They were just wasting their breath. The only question in our minds was whether it was necessary for Huett to fire on Hunter to save his own life."

Cutting its way ruthlessly through the maze of argument and oratory created by the lawyers, the jury arrived finally at the basic facts of the case and found the answers to the question upon which the issue of guilt or innocence depended.

This procedure represents jury service at its best and suggests that perhaps, after all, the weaknesses so often attributed to the system are to be found in the jurors.

SENSE IN NONSENSE

It is not recorded who declared that "a little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men." But whoever it was, he might with equal truth have observed that a great deal of nonsense is relished any time by most men.

In business or pleasure, a laugh is as hurriedly sought as anything else that may be on the program. The business of living is involved in so many worries and hardships that the most trivial nonsense helps to lighten the mind.

Comedy lifts the heart and serves as a tonic for many ills and that is the reason the public has hung on the words of men like Artemus Ward, Bill Nye and Mark Twain more readily than the words of a serious-minded statesman.

People love to lose themselves in nonsense. Their souls cry out for laughter. It is their antidote for sorrows and troubles.
The greatest tragedies of the stage have produced some of the greatest comedy of all times.

Cicero was not indulging in satire when he remarked, "There is nothing which can be spoken so absurd that it might not be true."

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Diplomats are too discreet to say much for publication. Confidentially, however, the staffs of the British and French embassies in Washington are decidedly resistant of widespread criticism of the joint plan of their respective foreign offices to need Italian-Ethiopian hostilities by giving half or more of Haile Selassie's realm to Mussolini.

Of course it is hard for them to dispute the charge that the settlement proposed jointly, at London and Paris, contemplated international acquiescence in the Fascists' grab of most of the territory they coveted, with a merely nominal concession to Ethiopia.

Nevertheless, the embassy staffs grumble, fault-finding with their so-called compromise comes with a particularly poor grace from the United States.

FEARFUL OF WAR

There is something to be said on the Anglo-France side of the question.

Neither the British nor the French want a hand in another major war any more than Uncle Sam does. Yet they are fearful of precipitating one by trying to prevent it.

In short, an attempt at prevention involves a risk to all who participate in it.

But suppose Britain and France have a chance, anyway.

If they succeed, the United

NEW DEALERS BELIEVE JUSTICE ROBERTS WILL BE GOP PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE

WASHINGTON—Activity in behalf of any nomination seekers was taboo at the meeting of the Republican National Committee, yet the most interesting development of the gathering was in connection with the race.

It consisted of the view privately voiced by some of the most important party leaders present that in the final showdown none of the present candidates will get the prize.

The 1936 GOP banner carrier, in the opinion of these politicians, will be a man whose name has so far not been mentioned.

No clue to the identity of the mysterious dark horse was given. In fact, it was specifically stated that the view was largely "dope". But the tip was to watch for the emergence of a boom for a prominent business figure in the next few months.

What makes the matter additionally intriguing is the fact that the very same theory regarding the Republican nominee is held in the inner White House circle.

Some of the President's closest advisers are firmly convinced that none of the aspirants now seeking the GOP nomination will get it and that a dark horse will be named at the Cleveland convention. The only point on which they differ with the Republican dopesters is on the type of the candidate.

The New Dealers believe that he will be a member of the Supreme Court, and the name they mention most frequently is that of Justice Owen D. Roberts.

Roberts has several times denied emphatically that he was a candidate, or would accept the nomination if tendered.

Administrationites refuse to be convinced. They point out as highly significant that in no split decision of the Supreme Court this term has Roberts sided with the three liberal Justices—Stone, Brandeis and Cardozo.

Attorney General Homer Cummings always passes out cigars and cigarettes at

He offered to show the newsmen a snappy South Sea Island film if they would

The movie was made by a Commerce Department agent who visited the romantic isles to investigate their availability as way stations for a trans-Pacific commercial air line. Said "Uncle Dan" to the Reporters:

nonsense?

MURDER UPSTAIRS

by ADAM BLISS

READ THIS FIRST:

Lieutenant Kirk Larabee is investigating the murder of Andrew Darren, a middle-aged bachelor who was stabbed to death with a carving knife as he slept in the boarding house of Alice Penny. After questioning Alice, her seven remaining boarders, the maid and cook in the house, Larabee learns that Darren was generally disliked and that he possessed a small fortune. Alice is amazed when the detective tells her she will inherit $200,000 through Darren's will. While Larabee and Alice are talking, they surprise
Grace, the cook, listening at the door.
Alice has to explain a list of anecdotes she has compiled about everyone in the house to Larabee. They discuss all of the boarders again, including Lucy, Alice's old friend who has been seeing a psychiatrist.
Dr. Rudeman, Lucy's psychiatrist surprises Alice with a visit at almost midnight. Dr. Rudeman, convinced that Lucy is abnormal, fears she may have committed the murder.
Returning from the inquest, Larabee
asks Alice about Dr. Rudeman's call the night before.
(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

I HAD A CHANCE, at last, to get in some of the questions I wanted to ask. "Lieutenant Larabee, is Dr.
Rudeman a reliable man?"
Of course Lucy had praised him to the skies and I had heard of him from other people. To everyone said he had an excellent reputation in his field. But I wanted Larabee's opinion of the man.

"Dr. Rudeman has done some in-work. Mrs. Penny is entirely reliable, of course. He often does work for the police. Last year he was the most important witness in the Moxley case. You remember that, don't you?"

I had read the case casually in the newspapers at the time but knew nothing more than I had read.
"We think very highly of him as an alienist in the department."

"And you—personally?"
"I don't know Rudeman intimately.
Merely as an alienist, but I think he is all right. He's not a quack. If that's what you mean. He was a brilliant surgeon before he took up psychiatry."

My head was still throbbing, although I had taken three aspirins before I went into the courtroom for the inquest.

"He knows his business, then?"
"Decidedly so, Mrs. Penny."

That tricked the balloon structure
I had been building up. I wanted Larabee to admit that Dr. Rudeman was a faker. Then I would know he was wrong about Lucy. Now, I didn't know what to think, nor where to turn.

Kirk Larabee said Dr. Rude-man knew what he was talking about, and the specialist, had told me he thought Lucy killed Andrew Darren. It wasn't a pleasant situation for me to be in. In my heart I thought Dr. Rudeman was a crook, but that thought, although it tormented me a little, wasn't enough for my peace of mind.

Lucy, this morning, had been the same as she was yesterday. Brighter.
If anything. More animated. She had decided to go abroad, she said, after everything was cleared up. I wanted her to go with me. She wouldn't take no for an answer. It was time I had a rest and with

Andrew Darren's money—I wished when she said that, thinking of what the doctor had told me—there was nothing to keep me in my boarding house. Besides, I'd have nobody left after the police quit the house. I hoped to be as much as I could had promised to go with her and the got out some knitting she was going for Emily's baby—her grandson—and oozed herself with it all morning.

Would a woman who has committed murder kill on a baby's sweater contentedly? Smile to herself as her fingers flew through soft pink yarn? I doubt it. But Lucy knitted all morning in the living room, with a basket of pink yarn at her feet. Lucy who had killed a game pig in Dr. Rudeman's office Monday afternoon. Murdering a tiny animal she was hypnotized into believing was Andrew Darren?

It was too much for me to figure out. I tried to rest my brain by going over what the other people in the house had done this morning. 30 hours after Mr. Darren's murder Marcella Cambridge had gone to school as I said, and had come back at 9:30. After I left her, she went into the library to do some research work. Several times when I went through the living room I saw her through the open doors of the immediately after breakfast, and remained there until noon when he came into the pantry for a snack of lunch. His appetite was coming back, for he ate almost all the plate of sandwiches I had prepared, and he had two helpings of salads.

Martin Hemingway remained in the dining room all morning with Mr. Talbot, reading a stack of papers and clipping from them. His papers were spread out at one end of the long table, and Mr. Talbot cards at the other. He didn't eat much for lunch, a couple of crackers, and a glass of milk. He said it was his usual fare, and I had no way of knowing because I wasn't familiar with his luncheon habits. He had never been at home at noon before.

It was a queer morning. I had never had one before like it. Janet's attitude puzzled me, along with what
Dr. Rudeman had said about Lucy.
"Won't you tell me what Dr. Rude-man said to you last night?" It was Kirk Larabee speaking. "I had completely forgotten him and the car. I was so startled I jumped."

"You'll have to ask him," I returned.

"I shall, don't worry. When he gets back to town, I called his office and his secretary said he'd gone east this morning by plane. To New York."

Larabee had discovered in his usual way I suppose, that I had lied to him, but I didn't care. I'd ontinue to lie and lie about Lucy. It knew now what I knew about Lucy.
She'd be in a cell in half an hour charged with the murder of Andrew Darren.

"The knives were all safe?"
"All safe," I answered. "I shall do the same with them tonight."

"You act, Mrs. Penny as though you expected another murder?"

"I don't know what to expect, but I do know that I'll never feel comfortable and safe in that house again as soon as all this is over. I'm going to give it up and go away."

Della was better when we reached home. The plain clothesman who was driving must have cheered her up. At any rate, she smiled at him warily when she got out of the car and I heard the officer say something about Saturday night and saw Della's slow nod. If it was a date it would be the first Della had had since she'd been with me. She wasn't attractive to men.

I hurried into the kitchen to see how Grace was getting along and saw that almost everything was prepared for dinner.

"Everything all right?" I asked as I took off my hat and coat and put them in the closet on the back porch
as I didn't want to go hiking—three flights of stairs.

Grace understood what I meant.
I wasn't referring to the dinner.

"Pretty quiet, except that I think Mr. Hemingway and Miss Bell had a quarrel. I was going upstairs to see if she wanted some tea—the poor thing hasn't had a bite to eat all day
—and I heard voices in her room, so I didn't knock. Though I'd better not—they might be embarrassed, and the door was closed. I didn't hear much, but it seemed to me that Mr.
Hemingway was mad. He talks out when he's mad, you know."

That scared me, for a moment.
What right did Martin Hemingway have in Janet's room?
(TO BE CONTINUED)

Robert Talbot

library, her gray head bent over her book, her fingers making no sound.
Mrs. Starnmont I didn't see. Grace took her breakfast to her, and said she was reading in her room. I think Grace lied, or else Mrs. Starnmont was there. When I passed the door to her room on the second floor at 10 o'clock, I heard low sobbing behind it. I wanted to go in, but didn't.

Janet didn't appear for breakfast, and I took a tray up to her, thinking she might want to talk to me.
I knocked, but she called out that she didn't want any breakfast.

I tried to persuade her from the other side of the locked door but she wouldn't be persuaded so I finally left the tray on a small table in the hall. At noon when I went up it was still there. That was Janet.

Robert Talbot spent the morning in the dining room playing solitaire.
I thought if he was playing when Della, Larabee and I left for the inquest at 1:30.

Mr. Withers had gone to his room at 1:30.

WASHINGTON—Activity in behalf of any nomination seekers was taboo at the meeting of the Republican National Committee, yet the most interesting development of the gathering was in connection with the race.

It consisted of the view privately voiced by some of the most important party leaders present that in the final showdown none of the present candidates will get the prize.

The 1936 GOP banner carrier, in the opinion of these politicians, will be a man whose name has so far not been mentioned.

No clue to the identity of the mysterious dark horse was given. In fact, it was specifically stated that the view was largely "dope". But the tip was to watch for the emergence of a boom for a prominent business figure in the next few months.

What makes the matter additionally intriguing is the fact that the very same theory regarding the Republican nominee is held in the inner White House circle.

Some of the President's closest advisers are firmly convinced that none of the aspirants now seeking the GOP nomination will get it and that a dark horse will be named at the Cleveland convention. The only point on which they differ with the Republican dopesters is on the type of the candidate.

The New Dealers believe that he will be a member of the Supreme Court, and the name they mention most frequently is that of Justice Owen D. Roberts.

Roberts has several times denied emphatically that he was a candidate, or would accept the nomination if tendered.

Administrationites refuse to be convinced. They point out as highly significant that in no split decision of the Supreme Court this term has Roberts sided with the three liberal Justices—Stone, Brandeis and Cardozo.

ENTICING OFFER

Attorney General Homer Cummings always passes out cigars and cigarettes at his press conferences, but Secretary Dan Roper topped him the other day.

He offered to show the newsmen a snappy South Sea Island film if they would drop around.

The movie was made by a Commerce Department agent who visited the romantic isles to investigate their availability as way stations for a trans-Pacific commercial air line. Said "Uncle Dan" to the Reporters:

"Come up and see me sometime. I'll run off this film for you. You'll like it."

spoken by some one of the philosophers." Did he not mean that there is sense in all nonsense?

A bridge at Oakland, Cal., has been equipped with sirens, loud speakers, bells, red lights and gates, to insure safety, but the average motorist, we believe, is sufficiently resourceful to crack up in spite of these precautions.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Diplomats are too discreet to say much for publication. Confidentially, however, the staffs of the British and French embassies in Washington are decidedly resentful of widespread criticism of the joint plan of their respective foreign offices to need Italian-Ethiopian hostilities by giving half or more of Haile Selassie's realm to Mussolini.

Of course it is hard for them to dispute the charge that the settlement proposed jointly, at London and Paris, contemplated international acquiescence in the Fascists' grab of most of the territory they coveted, with a merely nominal concession to Ethiopia.

Nevertheless, the embassy staffs grumble, fault-finding with their so-called compromise comes with a particularly poor grace from the United States.

FEARFUL OF WAR

There is something to be said on the Anglo-France side of the question.

Neither the British nor the French want a hand in another major war any more than Uncle Sam does. Yet they are fearful of precipitating one by trying to prevent it.

In short, an attempt at prevention involves a risk to all who participate in it.

But suppose Britain and France take a chance, anyway. If they succeed, the United States' benefits, with the rest of the world, from the fact that war has been averted.

However, if they fail? If their interference in a little war, like Italy's in Ethiopia, leads into a large scale conflict? — as may very well happen. Will the United States interfere with them in the little struggle? — according to the peril of becoming involved in a bigger one?

"No, sir," answers Uncle Sam, vociferously neutral.

"Then don't blame us," rejoins Britain and France, if we are pretty cautious also."

U. S. ATTITUDE NETTLES

Having stayed out of the League of Nations, the United States is not, then, in a position to criticize those who have shouldered its responsibilities. It may reasonably say it is glad it stayed out; that the league is proving itself to be a fizzle, as it expected. But it cannot consistently call itself disappointed that the league has not done better. It proclaimed all along that it considered such an organization an impracticability; consequently it did not desire to be affiliated with it.

It can cry, "I told you so," but it cannot criticize.

The American critical attitude is what frets British and French diplomacy.

SMALLER NATIONS' STATUS

Comment of the smaller powers in Europe likewise irritates both French and British.

These little countries are League of Nations' members for quite a different reason from some of the big ones. England and France joined the league to keep peace. The little ones joined for protection. Pint-size Roumania, Jugo-Slavia, Poland and others joined in the hope that the greater brethren would defend them against aggression; such as Italy's against Ethiopia. If Italy is permitted to gobble Ethiopia, they don't know when any one of them, in turn, may be gobbled by some stronger power.

Hence they all are pro-Ethiopian.

But they look to the stronger folk for protection.

They want Britain and France (especially Britain, because of its naval potency) to defend Ethiopia against Italy, as a warning, for their own benefit, in the future — but they can't lend much aid. The burden will be on the British and the French, so far as the little fellows are concerned.

TRYING TO KEEP PEACE

If there is a large-scale war, Britain and France will be the whole world's "goat" immediately.

MURDER UPSTAIRS

By ADAM BLISS

READ THIS FIRST:

Lieutenant Kirk Larabee is investigating the murder of Andrew Darien, a middle-aged bachelor who was stabbed to death with a carving knife as he slept in the boarding house of Alice Penny. After questioning Alice, her seven remaining boarders the maid and cook in detail, Larabee learns that Darien was generally disliked and that he possessed a small fortune. Alice is amazed when the detective tells her she will inherit $200,000 through Darien's will. While Larabee and Alice are talking, they surprise Grace, the cook, listening at the door. Alice has to explain a list of anecdotes she has compiled about every one in the house to Larabee. They discuss all of the boarders again, including Lucy, Alice's old friend who has been seeing a psychiatrist. Dr. Rudemar, Lucy's psychiatrist, surprises Alice with a visit at almost midnight. Dr. Rudemar, convinced that Lucy is abnormal, fears she may have committed the murder. Returning from the inquest, Larabee asks Alice about Dr. Rudemar's call the night before.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

I HAD A CHANCE, at last, to get in some of the questions I wanted to ask "Lieutenant Larabee, is Dr. Rudemar a reliable man?"

Of course Lucy had praised him to the skies and I had heard of him from other people. Too everyone said he had an excellent reputation in his field. But I wanted Larabee's opinion of the man.

"Dr. Rudemar has done some fine work, Mrs. Penny. He is entirely reliable, of course. He often does work for the police. Last year he was the most important witness in the Moses case. You remember that, don't you?"

I had read the case casually in the newspapers at the time but knew nothing more than I had read. "We think very highly of him as an alienist in the department."

"And you—personally?"

"I don't know Rudemar intimately. Merely as an alienist, but I think he is all right. He's not a quack, if that's what you mean. He was a brilliant surgeon before he took up psychiatry."

My head was still throbbing, although I had taken three aspirins before I went into the courtroom for the inquest.

"He knows his business, then?"

"Decidedly so, Mrs. Penny."

That pricked the balloon structure I had been building up. I wanted Larabee to admit that Dr. Rudemar was a faker. Then I would know he was wrong about Lucy. Now I didn't know what to think nor where to turn.

Kirk Larabee said Dr. Rudemar knew what he was talking about, and the specialist had told me he thought Lucy killed Andrew Darien.

"It wasn't a pleasant situation for me to be in. In my heart I thought Dr. Rudemar was wrong but that thought, although it comforted me a little, wasn't enough for my peace of mind."

Lucy, this morning, had been the same as she was yesterday. Brighter, if anything. More animated. She had decided to go abroad; she said, after everything was cleared up and wanted me to go with her. She wouldn't take no for an answer. It was time I had a rest and with

Andrew Darien's money—I winced when she said that, thinking of what the doctor had told me—there was nothing to keep me in my boarding house. Besides, I'd have nobody left after the police quit the house. I humored her as much as I could, but promising to go with her and she got out, some knitting she was going for Enery's baby—her grandson—and ousted herself with it all morning.

Would a woman who has committed murder knit on a baby's sweater contentedly? Smile to herself as her fingers flew through soft pink yarn? I doubt it. But Lucy knitted all morning in the living room, with a basket of pink yarn at her feet. Lucy who had killed a guinea pig in Dr. Rudemar's office Monday afternoon. Murdering a tiny animal she was hypnotized into believing was Andrew Darien.

It was too much for me to figure out. I tried to rest my brain by going over what the other people in the house had done this morning. 30 hours after Mrs. Darien's murder, Marcella Cambridge had gone to school as I said, and had come back at 9:30. After I left her, she went into the library to do some research work. Several times when I went through the living room I saw her through the open doors of the library, her gray head bent over her book, her fingers making notes. Mrs. Starnmont I didn't see. Grace took her breakfast to her, and said she was reading in her room. I think Grace lied, or else Mrs. Starnmont was pretending to read while Grace was there. When I passed the door to her room on the second floor at 10 o'clock, I heard low sobbing behind it. I wanted to go in, but didn't.

Janet didn't appear for breakfast, and I took a tray up to her, thinking she might want to talk to me. I knocked, but she called out that she didn't want any breakfast.

I tried to persuade her from the other side of the locked door but she wouldn't be persuaded, so I finally left the tray on a small table in the hall. At noon when I went up it was still there. That was Janet.

Robert Talbot spent the morning in the dining room playing solitaire. Hours at it. He was playing when Della, Larabee and I left for the inquest at 1:30.

Mr. Withers had gone to his room

immediately after breakfast and remained there until noon when he came into the pantry for a snack of lunch. His appetite was coming back, for he ate almost all the plate of sandwiches I had prepared, and he had two helpings of salads.

Martin Hemingway remained in the dining room all morning with Mr. Talbot, reading a stack of papers and clipping from them. His papers were spread out at the end of the long table, and Mr. Talbot's cards at the other. He didn't eat much for lunch, a couple of crackers and a glass of milk. He said it was his usual lunch, and I had no way of knowing because I wasn't familiar with his luncheon habits. He had never been at home at noon before.

It was a queer morning. I had never had one before like it. Janet's attitude puzzled me along with what Dr. Rudemar had said about Lucy.

"Won't you tell me what Dr. Rudemar said to you last night?" It was Kirk Larabee speaking. I had completely forgotten him and the car. I was so startled I jumped.

"You'll have to ask him," I returned.

"I shall don't worry, when he gets back to town. I called his office and his secretary said he'd gone east this morning by plane. To New York."

Larabee had discovered in his usual way. I suppose, that I had lied to him, but I didn't care. I'd continue to lie and lie about Lucy. If he knew now what I knew about Lucy, she'd be in a cell in half an hour charged with the murder of Andrew Darien.

"The knives were all safe?" "All safe," I answered. "I shall do the same with them tonight."

"You act, Mrs. Penny as though you expected another murder."

"I don't know what to expect, but I do know that I'll never feel comfortable and safe in that house again. As soon as all this is over I'm going to give it up and go away."

Della was better when we reached home. The plain clothesman who was driving must have cheered her up. At any rate, she smiled at me wanly when she got out of the car and I heard the officer say something about Saturday night and saw Della's slow nod. If it was a date it would be the first Della had had since she'd been with me. She wasn't attractive to men.

I hurried into the kitchen to see how Grace was getting along, and saw that almost everything was prepared for dinner.

"Everything all right?" I asked as I took off my hat and coat and put them in the closet on the back porch as I didn't want to go hiking. Three flights of stairs.

Grace understood what I meant. I wasn't referring to the dinner.

"Pretty quiet except that I think Mr. Hemingway and Miss Bell had a quarrel. I was going upstairs to see if she wanted some tea—the poor thing hasn't had a bite to eat all day—and I heard voices in her room, so I didn't knock. Thought I'd better not—they might be embarrassed, and the door was closed. I didn't hear much, but she seemed to me that Mr. Hemingway was mad. He talks loud when he's mad, you know."

That scared me, for a moment. What right did Martin Hemingway have in Janet's room?

Evelyn Eichinger Weds In Middleport Sunday

David Jones is Groom; Ceremony Read in Methodist Church

A pretty wedding in the Methodist Episcopal church in Middleport Sunday afternoon is of interest to a wide circle of friends in this city.

At the impressive ceremony read at 4 o'clock by Rev. W. T. Packer of the Rio Grande Baptist church, Miss Evelyn Eichinger, S. Court-st. daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Eichinger, became the bride of Mr. David Jones of Rio Grande.

Candelabras, ferns, palms and a center bouquet of white chrysanthemums were used on the altar of the church and white satin ribbons marked the pews where the guests were seated.

Preceding the service Mrs. Avery Eichinger of Columbus, formerly of this city, sister-in-law of the bride, sang a program of nuptial music and organ music played throughout the ceremony. Mrs. Eichinger sang "At Sweet Mystery of Life," and "At Dawning."

The bride's gown, fashioned along princess lines, was of old lace over satin and her tulle veil fell from a cap of the tulle to the end of the train on the dress. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and baby's breath tied with white satin ribbon.

There were six attendants for the bride. Miss Margaret Jones, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor; Mrs. Fred Healy of Middleport, matron of honor, and Miss Mary Hixbaugh of Union Furnace, Miss Helen West of Williamsport, Miss Dorothy Stark of Martin's Ferry, and Miss Jean McKay of Middleport, sorority sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The attendants' gowns were long, fashioned with tailored jackets. Two of the bridesmaids wore brown and the other two rust. Both Miss Jones and Mrs. Healy were in gold crepe.

All wore gold metal hats with brown veils and brown accessories and carried arm bouquets of large yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her older brother, Avery Eichinger of Columbus, and her younger brother, Henry Eichinger, S. Court-st., served as best man.

Ushers were John Edwards of Athens, Earl Richards and Fred Stone of Gallipolis, and Carl Manson, S. Court-st., this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones left for a short trip following the ceremony and upon return will reside in this city.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Jones attended Rio Grande college and graduated from Ohio university Athens. The bride is affiliated with Alpha Gamma Delta, Phi Beta Kappa, Kappa Delta Phi, and was a member of the college choir.

Mr. Jones was also a member of the choir and associated with Phi Delta Theta. He is now employed by the J. W. Eshelman Co. this city.

Among the guests at the wedding were Miss Myriam Hitchcock, Miss Elizabeth Cady, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pettit, this city.

Two Are Hostesses

Among the many delightful holiday parties was the evening bridge Saturday at which Mrs. D. Adrian Yates and sister, Miss Bernadine Lutz, were hostesses at the former's home on E. Main-st.

The home was beautiful with Christmas decorations. A prettily lighted Christmas tree, poinsettias, holly and red candles were placed to advantage in the rooms where six tables of contract bridge were in play.

Supper at 7 o'clock preceded the evening's play. Mrs. James I. Smith Jr. and Miss Lucile Neuding received prizes for high scores in the bridge game.

Open House at Smith Home

One of the largest and most enjoyable affairs in social circles during the Christmas season was the open house held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, E. High-st., Mrs. Smith's sister, Miss Marian Hitler, W. Mound-st., was also a hostess at the lovely informal party.

It was given for the pleasure of Dr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Hosterman of Buffalo, N. Y., who are guests during the holidays of Mrs. Hosterman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. May, S. Court-st.

Seventy-seven friends called at the home between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

Included in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sisson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morris, Miss Janet Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. George Banking, Mr. and Mrs. John Abernethy of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. George Elsass of Chillicothe; Mr. and Mrs. John Dunlap Jr., William Radcliff and Miss Mary Radcliff of Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. May, David May, Dr. and

Evelyn Eichinger Weds In Middleport Sunday

David Jones is Groom; Ceremony Read in Methodist Church

A pretty wedding in the Methodist Episcopal church in Middleport Sunday afternoon is of interest to a wide circle of friends in this city.

At the impressive ceremony read at 4 o'clock by Rev. W. T. Packer of the Rio Grande Baptist church, Miss Evelyn Eichinger, S. Court-st. daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Eichinger, became the bride of Mr. David Jones of Rio Grande.

Candelabras, ferns, palms and a center bouquet of white chrysanthemums were used on the altar of the church and white satin ribbon marked the pews where the guests were seated.

Preceding the service Mrs. Avery Eichinger of Columbus, formerly of this city, sister-in-law of the bride, sang a program of nuptial music and organ music was played throughout the ceremony. Mrs. Eichinger sang "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life," and "At Dawning."

The bride's gown, fashioned along princess lines, was of old lace over satin and her tulle veil fell from a cap of the tulle to the end of the train on the dress. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and baby's breath tied with white satin ribbon.

There were six attendants for the bride. Miss Margaret Jones, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor; Mrs. Fred Healy of Middleport, matron of honor, and Miss Mary Hixenbaugh of Union Furnace, Miss Helen West of Williamsport, Miss Dorothy Stark of Martin's Ferry, and Miss Jean McKay of Middleport, sorority sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The attendants' gowns were long, fashioned with tailored jackets. Two of the bridesmaids wore brown and the other two rust. Both Miss Jones and Mrs. Healy were in gold crepe.

All wore gold metal hats with brown veils and brown accessories and carried arm bouquets of large yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her older brother, Avery Eichinger of Columbus, and her younger brother, Henry Eichinger, S. Court-st., served as best man.

Ushers were John Edwards of Greens, Earl Richards and Fred Stone of Gallipolis, and Carl Manson, S. Court-st., this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones left for a short trip following the ceremony and upon return will reside in this city.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Jones attended Rio Grande college and graduated from Ohio university Athens. The bride is affiliated with Alpha Gamma Delta, Phi Beta Kappa, Kappa Delta Phi, and was a member of the college choir.

Mr. Jones was also a member of the choir and associated with Phi Delta Theta. He is now employed by the J. W. Eshelman Co. this city.

Among the guests at the wedding were Miss Myriam Hitchcock, Miss Elizabeth Cady, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pettit, this city.

Two Are Hostesses

Among the many delightful holiday parties was the evening bridge Saturday at which Mrs. D. Adrian Yates and sister, Miss Bernadine Lutz, were hostesses at the former's home on E. Main-st.

The home was beautiful with Christmas decorations. A prettily lighted Christmas tree, poinsettias, holly and red candles were placed to advantage in the rooms where six tables of contract bridge were in play.

Supper at 7 o'clock preceded the evening's play. Mrs. James I. Smith Jr. and Miss Lucile Neuding received prizes for high scores in the bridge game.

Open House at Smith Home

One of the largest and most enjoyable affairs in social circles during the Christmas season was the open house held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, E. High-st. Mrs. Smith's sister, Miss Marian Hitler, W. Mound-st., was also a hostess at the lovely informal party.

It was given for the pleasure of Dr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Hosterman of Buffalo, N. Y., who are guests during the holidays of Mrs. Hosterman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. May, S. Court-st.

Seventy-seven friends called at the home between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

Included in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sisson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morris, Miss Janet Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Workman, Mr. and Mrs. George Banning, Mr. and Mrs. John Abernethy of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. George Elsass of Chillicothe; Mr. and Mrs. John Dunlap Jr., William Radcliff and Miss Mary Radcliff of Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. May, David May, Dr. and

Giant 'Boss' Leads Loop First Basemen in Field

Terry Makes Only Six Errors and Has 99 Assists; Herman, Jorges, Vergez Win Positions

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS)—Billy Terry, the New York Giants hard-hitting playing manager, today was acknowledged officially as the best fielding first-basemen in the National league.

According to official statistics released today, "Memphis Bill" topped the first-sacker with a fielding mark of .996. Terry made only six errors through the season, and contributed most assists—99.

Sam Leslie, traded by Terry to the Brooklyn Dodgers, was second in the ratings, with an average of .9894, 1000th of a point in front of Gus Suhr, of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Billy Herman, of the Chicago Cubs, was the year's best second basemen with a fielding mark of .964. Only three other senior loop middle-basemen saw action in 1935 in more than 100 games. They were Alex Kampouris, Cincinnati Reds, Floyd Young, Pittsburgh Pirates, and Lou Chiozza, of the Phils.

Verges Leaders, Too

Johnny Vergez, traded by the Giants to the Philadelphia nine, made an excellent comeback to lead the fielding third-basemen with an average of .953. The Frenchman made only ten misplays at the "hot corner" in a total of 144 games.

Bill Jorges, Cubs, nipped Leo Durocher, of the St. Louis Cardinals, for the shortstops' fielding title, Jorges averaging .964 to Durocher's .963.

Charles "Gabby" Hartnett took the catcher's championship for the second successive year, fielding .984. The Cub backstop, by appearing in 110 games, chalked up his eleventh straight year of catching in more than 100 games.

By the narrow margin of one point, Mel Ott, of the Giants, took the leadership among outfielders, edging out Paul Waner, of Pittsburgh, by one point, fielding .990 to Waner's .989.

MOSCIP READY TO PLAY IN ROSE BOWL CONTEST

PALO ALTO, Cal., Dec. 23.—(INS)—James "Monk" Moscip, Stanford's all-American left end and field goal booter, apparently is ready for Rose Bowl competition on New Year's day in Pasadena when the Cardinals clash with Southern Methodist.

Moscip tested his crippled left knee and reported to Jim Lawson, Stanford end coach, that he would be able to play.

"I'll be able to play," Moscip said, "and I don't want to use a brace."

This, however, was for Dr. Fritz Roth, Stanford team physician, to decide.

Dentists took the last wires from Moscip's jaw Saturday. He began eating hard food for the first time since the game when the jaw fracture was discovered.

About This And That In Many Sports

SEVERAL TEAMS TIE

A real scramble is on for The Herald cups in the county basketball loop. To date, New Holland, Ashville and Muhlenberg twp are on top in the boys' race, neither yet tasting defeat. In the girls division, Darby twp is the only unbeaten entrant. The Derbyites face several tough contests. Monroe, with a fast team, being one of them and New Holland being another * * *

HELD FOR SINGLE YEAR

The Herald is giving cups to the teams finishing on top in the regular playing season, the tournament not counting. Winning schools will possess the cups one year, a winner three consecutive years to retain permanent possession * * *

NO REST FOR TIGERS

Most schools are enjoying vacations and so are their basketball teams, but the high school varsity is scheduled for a scrimmage practice tonight against the C. A. C. they drill Tuesday and Thursday and play in Hemlock, somewhere down in the sticks, on Friday—January 4 is a date to remember the Tigers and Ashville on the local court — CAC gym should be packed * * *

GLOWING ITEMS WRITTEN

Chillicothe newspapers wrote of the victory over the high school in glowing terms, but neither mentioned absence of John Jenkins, best ball player on the Tiger squad, or that Referee Fritz Mackey forgot to bring a bunch of Ohio State's headgear with him to add a little more football color to the fiasco * * *

MANY STARS IN ACTION

For persons interested there is some good basketball on tap this evening in the Columbus league at the Knights of Columbus gym. Many former college stars, most of them Ohio Staters, play the various teams. One of the big battles will be between Bill Hosket and Cookie Cunningham, former OSU center stars * * *

DELAWARE SENSATION WINS OVER RUDOLPH

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS)—James Caras, of Wilmington, Del., 25-year-old cue sensation, today was crowned pocket billiard champion of the world following his victory over Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland, 125-53, in a first-place playoff for the title last night.

Caras won eight of his ten tournament contests. He tied Rudolph, three times champion, and favored in the 1935 tourney, by beating him Saturday.

Faced with the almost impossible feat of licking the veteran twice in a row, Caras played flawlessly in the rubber and title-taking game by pocketing 116 balls in four consecutive innings. He is the youngest cueist to win the championship since Ralph Greenleaf won 16 years ago.

WHISTERS AT BRIDGE

WHIST PLAYERS have almost vanished. The desire for speed and thrill have replaced rowboats and phaetons with speed boats and racing cars—archery with street shooting—whist with contract bridge. Bidding may bother trained whistlers but they render excellent account of themselves when playing their hands, as did Mrs. Georgiana Richards Wilson, playing the South hand, at 8-Diamonds, doubled by West.

South had played her cards so well that the only trick possible for the doubler to win was the top trump, whether declarer led the top spade, the top club, or one of her two remaining trumps.

A Wise Partner

As there was only the K of clubs outstanding, the 10 of diamonds was led and overtaken with declarer's Ace, leaving the bare Q of trumps in West's hand. The 8 of clubs was led. Of course West could ruff and lead a heart, but what would be the use. Dummy's J of diamonds then would remain. West discarded a low heart. Dummy ruffed with its last trump.

At the ninth trick declarer had to lead dummy's lowest heart. East played the J. Declarer ruffed with the 3. The four cards left in each hand were as shown below. South was in the lead.

As expected, East showed out, discarding the lowest spade. The Ace of clubs was led. Dummy ruffed the 3 of clubs. Declarer regained the lead by taking out dummy's last spade, winning with the 9. Dummy ruffed the 6 of clubs. West's J fell.

When West made an opening bid of 4-Spades, his partner passed. He had learned through sad experience that only when you hold the Ace of each side suit is it safe to attempt a slam. He was a wise partner. Declarer just made his game. Certainly East's hand appeared tempting.

CHURCHES CONDUCT APPROPRIATE HOLIDAY SERVICES

MANY PROGRAMS GIVEN APPLAUSE BY HUGE CROWDS

Beautiful services in several of the city's churches officially launched the Christmas religious season Sunday. Other churches are planning appropriate services this evening, Christmas eve and Christmas day.

One of the most beautiful services was the pageant, "Angels of Christmas," witnessed by a large crowd in the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening. Mrs. J. P. Moffitt, choir director, was in charge of the pageant with several ladies of the church assisting. Appropriate music by the choir, with solos by Mrs. Moffitt and Mrs. Wendell Boyer and a duet by Mrs. Frank H. Kline Jr. and Glen Geib, interspersed the program. Hunter Chambers was at the organ.

The vesper service in the Presbyterian church in which the choir presented the beautiful cantata, "The Christ Child," was highly praised. The choir, consisting mostly of trained voices, was ably directed by Carlisle Moffitt of Columbus with Miss Abbe Mills Clarke the organist.

Soloists were Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Harry Heffner, Mrs. Melvin Yates, Herbert Eagleton, Franklin Price, and Melvin Yates.

Trinity Lutheran church's cantata, "The First Christmas," directed by Carl C. Leist and accompanied by Carl Palm, also received its share of plaudits. Soloists were Gladden Troutman, Marion Sensenbrenner, John W. Walters, Christian Schwarz, Mrs. Robert Bower, Mrs. George Troutman, and Miss Dorothy Bartley.

The Christmas play, "The Promised One," was ably presented by members of the Calvary Evangelical congregation. A number of Biblical characters were portrayed by the members.

PARENTS EACH TO HAVE CHILD 6 MONTHS IN YEAR

Mrs. Marvene Goldsberry, this city, was granted a divorce in common pleas court Monday by Judge Joseph W. Adkins from Guy Goldsberry, residing near Ashville, on the grounds of neglect.

Mrs. Goldsberry was awarded the custody of a minor child, Barbara Ann, but the decree stated the child should have the custody of the plaintiff, Mr. Goldsberry, for six months out of each year. While the child is in the custody of the plaintiff, Mr. Goldsberry is ordered to pay $2 per week for support.

Mrs. Goldsberry, a minor, filed the action through her next friend, Margaret Wilson, Atty. T. A. Renick represented Mrs. Goldsberry.

G. D. Rader, son of County Commissioner Burr Rader, has moved from Town-st. to his father's farm near Ashville.

The offering at services of the United Brethren church Sunday morning, for the Otterbein Home in Lebanon near Dayton, totaled $265.37.

Mrs. Ada Harris, S. Pickaway-st., colored, fell on the slippery pavement in front of her home Sunday night breaking her left arm.

Mrs. Harry Bartholomew and baby daughter were taken to their home on E. Mount-st. from Berger hospital Sunday.

Mrs. H. B. Given, E. Main-st., was brought to her home Sunday from Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, where she recently underwent a major operation. Her condition is reported good.

Farm Bureau officials and a group of county workers plan to attend a state corn-hog program conference in Columbus, Jan. 2 and 3. The new 1936-37 program will be discussed at the meetings, to be held at Ohio State university.

A meeting for the organization of the 1936 Baby Beef 4-H club will be held in the Farm Bureau offices Thursday at 1:30 p.m. Plans will be made for purchasing calves for the program.

TOWNSEND ORGANIZER PLANNING CONVENTION

LANCASTER, Dec. 23.—Plans are being made by Thomas S. Wright, Townsend club organizer, for a convention of 11th congressional district clubs here in January.

The convention would be held to outline plans for 1936 and include a legislative program. Clubs have been organized in Lancaster, Chillicothe, Circleville, New Lexington and other cities of the district.

A youngster, waiting in the auto for his parents to return from shopping Saturday night, decided a little fire in the car would make his wait more comfortable.

He fired some excelsior in a tin can and the auto warmed up swiftly, especially after the upholstery caught fire. Fortunately a can of kerosene and one of gasoline failed to explode.

The interior and top of the car were destroyed and damage was estimated at $10 by firemen. The car was parked in the alley at the rear of Schieff's garage and was owned by Noah D. Brown, formerly of Pearl alley, now living on the county line road near Stoutsville. Brown is a WPA employee.

MRS. OGLE, MONROE-TWP., DIES; FUNERAL TUESDAY

Mrs. Mary V. Ogle, 29, wife of Jennings Ogle of Monroe-twp., died Saturday at 9:30 p. m. in a McConnellsville sanatorium where she had been a patient three months.

Mrs. Ogle was born in Fayetteville, Jan. 3, 1906, a daughter of L. F. and Mary Martindale Marine. She married Jennings Ogle Oct. 22, 1924.

She is survived by her parents; her husband; a daughter, Hilda; three brothers, Ralph and Charles of Middleburg, O., and Roy of Columbus, and a sister, Mrs. Blanche Dennis of New Holland.

The deceased was graduated from Clarksburg high school in 1929.

The body will remain at the Hill funeral home in Williamsport until time of the funeral Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Clarksburg M. E. church with Rev. Forsythe in charge. Burial will be in New Holland cemetery.

SANTA CLAUS ARRIVES

TOLEDO, Dec. 23.—(INS)—Santa Claus paid a premature visit to more than 13,000 employees of the Owens Illinois Glass company today.

Christmas checks were distributed to employees by the concern.

colleagues in the war office, aware that the new foreign secretary wants to hog-tie Italy with further sanctions, prepared for trouble by mounting Britain's cavalry on iron steeds.

Ten cavalry regiments, among them some of the most famous in Britain's fighting forces, are to be converted forthwith into a fast mechanized division consisting of two motor cavalry regiments, one light tank regiment, a tank brigade, and divisional troops.

Become Gun Units

Also thirteen crack regiments of infantry and two battalions of fort-guards are to become machine gun units.

Member of an aristocratic family, and known as "Europe's best-dressed diplomat," Anthony Eden, now entrusted with Britain's foreign secretaryship during the most crucial period since the war, had his mettle tested on the battlefield, where he won the military cross.

When he and Sir John Simon talked with Chancellor Hitler in Berlin over Germany's rearmament, they found that Eden and Hitler had fought in trenches directly opposite each other.

Eden is the youngest foreign minister since Earl Granville, who held the post in 1851 at the age of 36. Eden is 38.

Parliament in 1923

Educated at Eton and Oxford, he entered Parliament in 1923, and in 1926 became Parliamentary secretary to Sir Austen Chamberlain, then foreign secretary, later becoming parliamentary undersecretary to the foreign office.

He was made Lord Privy Seal, responsible for League of Nations matters, two years ago, and this year the special cabinet post of minister for league affairs was created for him. At Geneva the moustached, camera-shy diplomat distinguished himself by his pressure for strong action against Italy, and at Rome is said to have engaged in a personal verbal clash with Premier Mussolini that makes his appointment distasteful to Italy.

CALL FOR SANTA CLAUS LEADS TO ENGINE RUN

It was just a slight error but the kiddies had a treat in seeing the fire engine run, and Santa Claus was the basis of the mistake.

Firemen received a call Monday morning from the Nursery school on E. Main-st., located in the Colville property. The party on the telephone asked firemen "If they would come out to the nursery school." The engine roared, doors flew open and in a few moments the truck was in front of the school.

Firemen then learned the sentence was not fully completed. What the employees of the school wanted to know was if the firemen would come out Tuesday when they start their toy distribution and let the kiddies see Santa Claus.

MANY PROGRAMS GIVEN APPLAUSE BY HUGE CROWDS

Beautiful services in several of the city's churches officially launched the Christmas religious season Sunday. Other churches are planning appropriate services this evening, Christmas eve and Christmas day.

One of the most beautiful services was the pageant, "Angels of Christmas," witnessed by a large crowd in the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening. Mrs. J. P. Moffitt, choir director, was in charge of the pageant with several ladies of the church assisting. Appropriate music by the choir, with solos by Mrs. Moffitt and Mrs. Wendell Boyer and a duet by Mrs. Frank H. Kline Jr. and Glen Geib, interspersed the program. Hunter Chambers was at the organ.

The vesper service in the Presbyterian church in which the choir presented the beautiful cantata, "The Christ Child," was highly praised. The choir, consisting mostly of trained voices, was ably directed by Carlisle Moffitt of Columbus with Miss Abbe Mills Clarke the organist.

Soloists were Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Harry Heffner, Mrs. Melvin Yates, Herbert Eagleson, Franklin Price, and Melvin Yates.

Trinity Lutheran church's cantata, "The First Christmas," directed by Carl C. Leist and accompanied by Carl Palm, also received its share of plaudits. Soloists were Gladden Troutman, Marion Sensenbrenner, John W. Walters, Christian Schwarz, Mrs. Robert Bower, Mrs. George Troutman, and Miss Dorothy Bartley.

The Christmas play, "The Promised One," was ably presented by members of the Calvary Evangelical congregation. A number of Biblical characters were portrayed by the members.

PARENTS EACH TO HAVE CHILD 6 MONTHS IN YEAR

Mrs. Marvene Goldsberry, this city, was granted a divorce in common pleas court Monday by Judge Joseph W. Adkins from Guy Goldsberry, residing near Ashville, on the grounds of neglect.

Mrs. Goldsberry was awarded the custody of a minor child, Barbara Ann, but the decree stated the each parent should have the child six months out of each year. While the child is in the custody of the plaintiff, Mr. Goldsberry is ordered to pay $2 per week for support.

Mrs. Goldsberry, a minor, filed the action through her next friend, Margaret Wilson, Atty. T. A. Renick represented Mrs. Goldsberry.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT
He that spareth his rod hateth his son: but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes.—Proverbs 13:24.

B. F. Benford, president of the First National bank, is recuperating at his E. Main-st home after falling and fracturing his left arm.

G. D. Rader, son of County Commissioner Burr Rader, has moved from Town-st to his father's farm near Ashville.

The offering at services of the United Brethren church Sunday morning, for the Otterbein Home in Lebanon near Dayton, totalled $265.37.

Mrs. Ada Harris, S. Pickaway-st, colored, fell on the slippery pavement in front of her home Sunday night breaking her left arm.

Mrs. Harry Bartholomew and baby daughter were taken to their home on E. Mound-st from Bergher hospital Sunday.

Mrs. H. B. Given, E. Main-st, was brought to her home Sunday from Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, where she recently underwent a major operation. Her condition is reported good.

Farm Bureau officials and a group of county workers plan to attend a state corn-hog program conference in Columbus, Jan. 2 and 3. The new 1936-37 program will be discussed at the meetings, to be held at Ohio State university.

A meeting for the organization of the 1936 Baby Beef 4-H club will be held in the Farm Bureau offices Thursday at 1:30 p.m. Plans will be made for purchasing calves for the program.

LANCASTER, Dec. 23.—Plans are being made by Thomas S. Wright, Townsend club organizer, for a convention of 11th congressional district clubs here in January.

The convention would be held to outline plans for 1936 and include a legislative program. Clubs have been organized in Lancaster, Chillicothe, Circleville, New Lexington and other cities of the district.

A youngster, waiting in the auto for his parents to return from shopping Saturday night, decided a little fire in the car would make his wait more comfortable.

He fired some excelsior in a tin can and the auto warmed up swiftly, especially after the upholstering caught fire. Fortunately a can of kerosene and one of gasoline failed to explode.

The interior and top of the car were destroyed and damage was estimated at $10 by firemen. The car was parked in the alley at the rear of Schieff's garage and was owned by Noah D. Brown, formerly of Pearl alley, now living on the county line road near Stoutsville. Brown is a WPA employee.

MRS. OGLE, MONROE-TWP., DIES; FUNERAL TUESDAY

Mrs. Mary V. Ogle, 29, wife of Jennings Ogle of Monroe - twp., died Saturday at 9:30 p. m. in a McConellsville sanatorium where she had been a patient three months.

Mrs. Ogle was born in Fayette-co., Jan. 3, 1906, a daughter of L. F. and Mary Martindale Marine. She married Jennings Ogle Oct. 22, 1924.

She is survived by her parents; her husband; a daughter, Hilda; three brothers, Ralph and Charles of Middleburg, O., and Roy of Columbus, and a sister, Mrs. Blanche Dennis of New Holland.

The deceased was graduated from Clarksburg high school in 1929.

The body will remain at the Hill funeral home in Williamsport until time of the funeral Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Clarksburg M. E. church with Rev. Forsythe in charge. Burial will be in New Holland cemetery.

SANTA CLAUS ARRIVES

TOLEDO, Dec. 23.—(INS)—Santa Claus paid a premature visit to more than 13,000 employees of the Owens Illinois Glass company today.

Christmas checks were distributed to employees by the concern.

colleagues in the war office, aware that the new foreign secretary wants to hog-tie Italy with further sanctions, prepared for trouble by mounting Britain's cavalry on iron steeds.

Ten cavalry regiments, among them some of the most famous in Britain's fighting forces, are to be converted forthwith into a fast mechanized division consisting of two motor cavalry regiments, one light tank regiment, a tank brigade, and divisional troops.

Become Gun Units

Also thirteen crack regiments of infantry and two battalions of fort-guards are to become marching gun units.

Member of an aristocratic family, and known as "Europe's best-dressed diplomat," Anthony Eden, now entrusted with Bri-

CALL FOR SANTA CLAUS LEADS TO ENGINE RUN

It was just a slight error but the kiddies had a treat in seeing the fire engine run, and Santa Claus was the basis of the mistake.

Firemen received a call Monday morning from the Nursery school on E. Main-st, located in the Colville property. The party on the telephone asked firemen "If they would come out to the nursery school." The engine roared, doors flew open and in a few moments the truck was in front of the school.

Firemen then learned the sentence was not fully completed. What the employees of the school wanted to know was if the firemen would come out Tuesday when they start their distribution and let the kiddies see Santa Claus.

Having divorced one Prince Mdivani, an American is marrying another, thereby doing her part in making certain that the classification of "Marrying Mdivanis" is maintained.
